Reading/Language Arts: Students will understand, make inferences and draw conclusions about the structure and elements of drama and provide evidence from text to support their understanding.

Math: Students will continue to work on representing and solving addition and subtraction of mixed numbers with unequal denominators using properties of operations and pictorial models. We will also be working towards representing and solving multiplication of a whole number and a fraction using properties of operations and pictorial models.

Science: Students will learn that Earth consists of natural resources and its surface is constantly changing.

Social Studies: Students are wrapping up our unit on conflict and compromise and will be discussing the U.S. Constitution, and ratifying the constitution. We will then begin our unit on the Early Expansion of America and change in the 19th century.
